The Kladstrups have written a fine account about a little known aspect of both the wine world and World War II. The myriad machinations of French winemakers to keep their best wines out of German Army cellars are fascinating. So too are the many tales of subterfuge: some subtle, some rather dangerously overt.

War, Wine, and Taxes | Princeton University Press

French wine is produced all throughout France, in quantities between 50 and 60 million hectolitres per year, or 7-8 billion bottles. France is one of the largest wine producers in the world, along with Italian, Spanish, American, and Chinese wine-producing regions. French wine traces its history to the 6th century BC, with many of France's regions dating their wine-making history to Roman times.
